How do I describe my invisibility? Just because you don't see me doesn't mean I'm not there. As light does not exist in itself, absent its invisible spectrum; so does not my life; so do not my existence, who claims life as my standard. The invisible spectrum of life has been there as long as light has existed; I have been here as long as man has existed. To demonize me is to demonize yourselves; ignoring me is to ignore each other. Ignorance is condemning.
